

Weekly Newsletter

From the City Administrator

Dear Tool,

This has been a long, but quiet week!

On Monday morning, a few council members and I went to visit the new Tool at Cedar Trails senior housing community. The new development is not only spacious, but it houses some of the most wonderful residents around the lake. This housing development is for those who are seniors and looking for a place to call home.

As you may know, we are currently looking to employ the city's next Building Official and Code Enforcement Officer. This week, we conducted two final interviews with quality candidates. Both candidates have building and construction experience, along with a breath of local government work as well. Each of them boast different strengths and weaknesses. As long as we understand that we are all in this together, I believe that we can make Tool the best place that anyone would work for.

Lastly, I hope to see everyone at our fall festival. Kimberley Price, our City Clerk, has been working diligently to make sure that it is a resounding success. I am proud to call her my coworker.

Tool, Together.

Sincerely,

Julius Kizzee
City Administrator